Trash talk on the G&W trash board

Members exchange heated words

By MICHAEL DANIELS

As solid waste meetings go, it was warmer under the collar than most.

"I am not a potted plant," Ivan Roberts angrily declared near the conclusion of Tuesday's hastily called emergency meeting of the G&W Solid Waste Board.

Recent actions by Roberts' were the main reason the meeting was called.

The G&W board manages the joint solid-waste-disposal program of Greenwood and Woodstock. The committee's six-member board is made up of the three selectmen from each town.

Roberts, who was elected as a Greenwood selectman in March of last year, is the board's newest member.

And lately the other members have become increasingly concerned that Roberts' go-it-alone and confrontational method of approaching the job is beginning to interfere with the board's effectiveness.

At issue Tuesday was an upcoming (Tuesday, Feb. 17) public hearing the committee has called, and a flyer Roberts later circulated regarding the agenda for the hearing.

The board called the hearing in order to provide a forum for the discussion of three specific topics: mandatory recycling, disposal of waste from local businesses, and from large demolition projects.

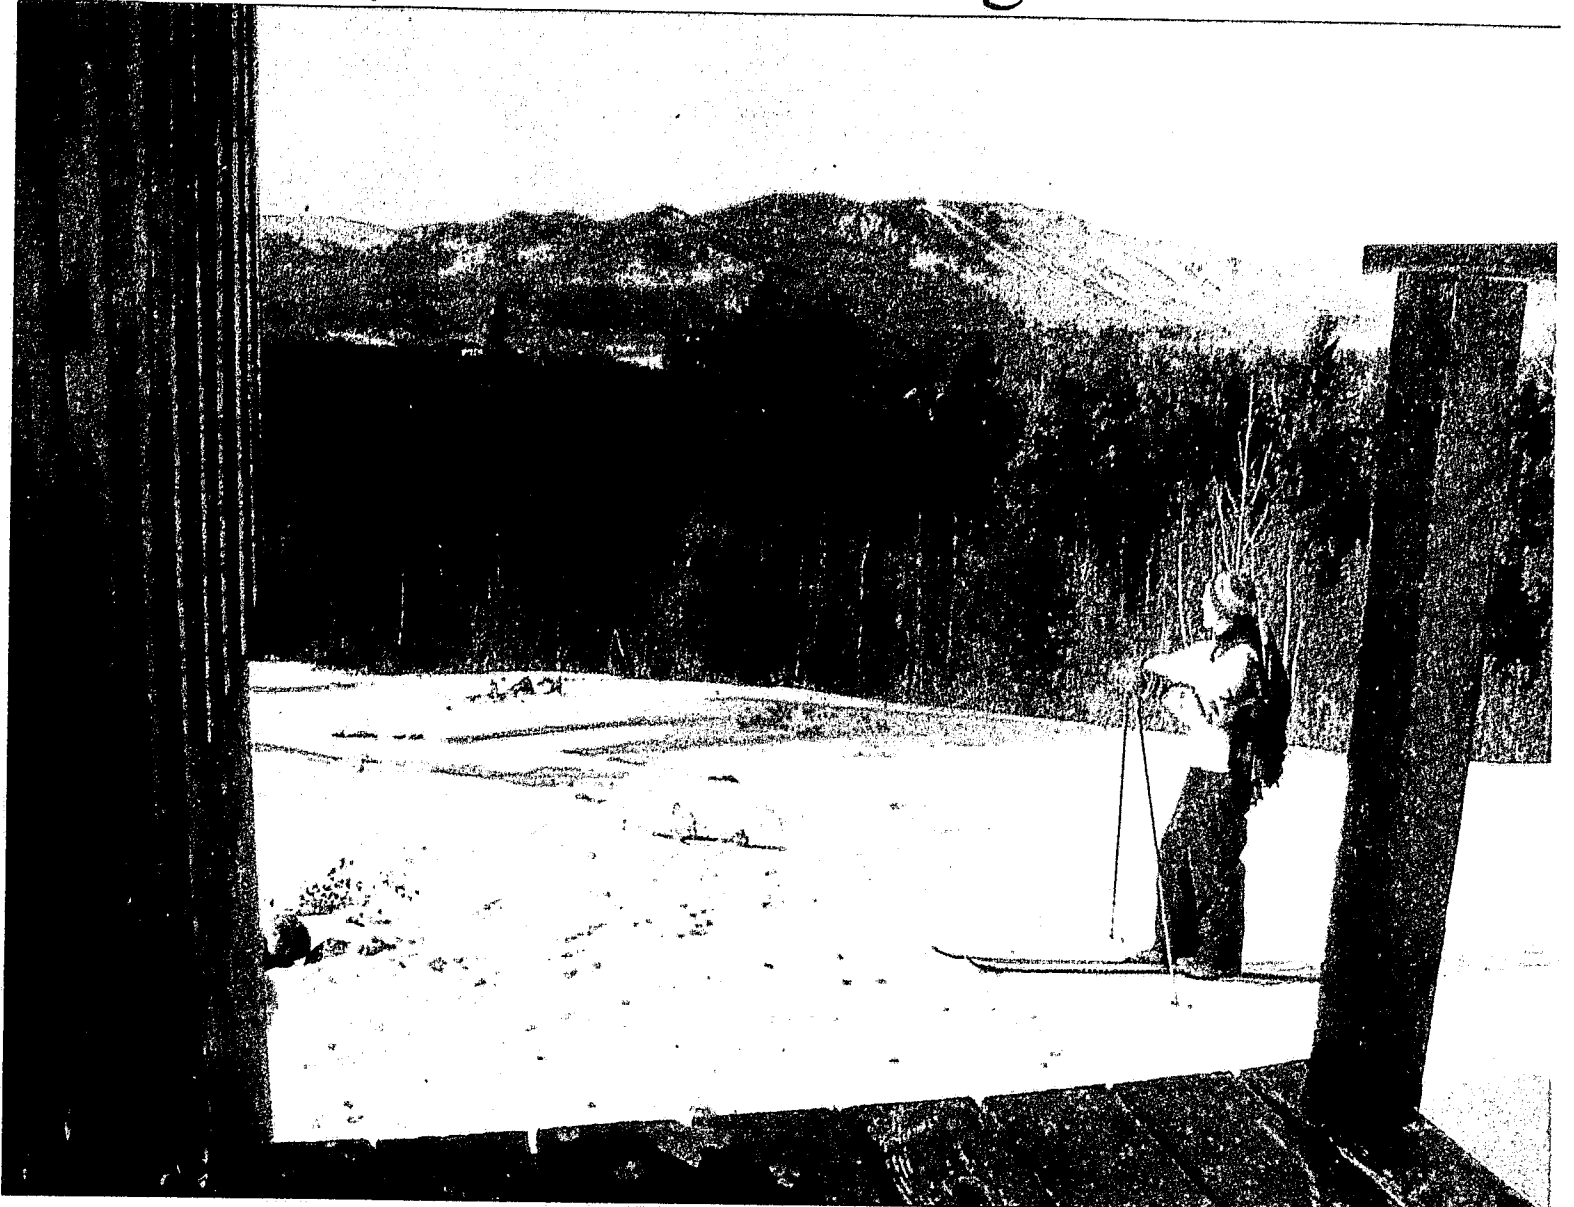

An advertisement, paid for by the board, informed residents of the two towns of the time, place and intent of the hearing.

Roberts, however, subsequently circulated his own flyer. Identifying himself as a selectman, he listed five topics, adding two of his own personal priorities — both involving the manner in which the two towns split the cost of the solid waste operation.

This drew the ire of his fellow board members, who accused him Monday of distorting the intent of the board in order to further

Greenwood could face large tax hike

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Greenwood taxpayers could see their property tax bill increase by nearly 10 percent, if preliminary figures for the town's FY '04 budget hold firm.

Town Manager Carol Whitman said that budget calculations are pointing toward a tax hike of 1.53 mills, which would up the town's tax rate — currently 16.75 mills — to 18.28 mills. (One mil equals $1 of tax per thousand dollars of assessed valuation.)

A rate hike of 1.53 mills would show up as an increase of just over 9 percent in an average property tax bill.

Whitman emphasized Tuesday that the budget "is not yet set in stone," and in any case the final say with all spending requests lies with residents at the annual Town Meeting next month.

She also noted that the eventual tax increase is likely to be held down by an expected jump in town valuation, attributable largely to the 40 new homes that have been permitted in town since last April.

Spending up

The potential tax hike is driven primarily by an increase of $73,000 in the town's municipal budget (which does not include school and county levies).

Last year's municipal budget, of $830,152, is penciled in to increase to $902,710, Whitman said.

Three large items account for the bulk of the overall municipal increase.

Town selectmen are expected to recommend that voters begin this year to put away $25,000 a year for three years to pay for a town wide reassessment.

The Highway Maintenance Account is slated to increase $25,000, to $175,000, which would make it possible to add a fourth Highway Department employee.

Whitman said the state's rough rule of thumb for Highway Department staffing calls

A cross-country commute to envy

By ALISON ALOISIO

Russ Carter, the dairy manager at the Bethel Foodliner, travels about six miles to work. Most of the commute is pretty routine.

What's not routine is the first three-quarters of a mile of the daily trip in the winter, when there's snow on the ground. He does it on cross-country skis.

Carter lives on Farwell Mountain in Bethel, off the Intervale Road. He's a cousin to David Carter, who owns the nearby Carter's Cross-Country Ski Center.

Before Russ came to Maine 13 years ago, he lived in New London, Conn. He worked there as an assistant manager at a Marshall's store. But the time came when he wanted out of that job.

"I got sick of it," he said.

He had been coming to Bethel regularly to visit his cousins, and decided to make a change in lifestyle. "Why keep coming here once or twice a year, when I could live here all the time?" he said.

So in 1991, he started working for David at Carter's Farm Market and Cross-Country Ski Center in Oxford.

A few years later, he helped build the ski lodge at the Bethel center. And in 1995, after buying 44 acres from his relatives, he built his own small house on Farwell Mt.

It's accessible by truck in the summer, by way of an old logging road off the Swan Hill Road. But Russ' lifestyle is definitely off the grid. "I enjoy getting back to basics," he said.

He has a generator for electricity, but often uses gas lamps for light. Water comes from a well — when it's not dry. He owns a cell phone, but only turns it on during selected hours.

And in the winter, the routine takes on a new challenge.

Rather than have the logging road to his house plowed, Russ parks his truck in a parking lot adjacent to the Carter ski trails.

BWD warns; frost once again poised to bite pipes

By ALISON ALOISIO

Last month's deep freeze may not have lasted as long as the cold snaps of January and February, 2003, but the frigid January of 2004 has made the ground colder. And that's a worry for the Bethel Water District.

By mid-February of 2003, there were many instances in which BWD customers had their waterlines freeze. Employees scrambled to thaw the pipes.

This year, the Water District is trying to be more proactive, according to Don Katlin, assistant superintendent.

Some customers might be surprised to learn the ground temperatures are currently colder than they were a year ago at this time.

On Feb. 6, 2003, the temperature at a depth of three feet was 27 degrees. At four feet it was 30, at five feet 32 and at six feet, 33.

On the same date this year, it was 26 at three feet, 29 at four feet, 31 at five feet and 33 at six feet.

JOURNEY TO AUGUSTA BEGINS AT HOME

The Telstar High School girls' basketball team will go to the post-season tournament in Augusta for the first time in school history, following a 58-49 win Tuesday night over Livermore Falls. The victory against the Andies came as Telstar hosted its first-ever Western Class C preliminary game. Here, the Rebels' Liz Rosenberg gets ready to go up for a shot against a Livermore player. Telstar, ranked #4 in Western Class C, will face #5 Jay Monday at the Augusta Civic Center. (See page 17 for scoring details.)

Local florist leads fight against out-of-state 'order gatherers'

By ALISON ALOISIO

A local florist is helping to lead a statewide effort to pass legislation to stop what she says is deceptive advertising in her business.

Janet Black, owner of Designs Florists & Interiors in Bethel, is president of the Maine State Florist and Growers Association.

She's been in office barely a month, but has already testified before a legislative committee regarding practices by telemarketing companies that take phone orders for flowers.

At issue, said Black, are listings of what appear to be florists in phone books serving Maine's larger population areas — for example, "Sanford Florist" or "Westbrook Florist."

Such names are deceptive, said Black, because there are no florists by those names located in the actual towns. Instead, there is only an 800 number that, if called, connects to a telemarketing company in another state, such as New Jersey. The company simply takes the order from the Maine customer, then relays it to a florist in the delivery area.

The process, said Black, unnecessarily takes business out of Maine, especially if the delivery is also meant for Maine. It can mean higher costs for the customer, and less business for Maine florists and flower growers, she said. And it's a similar scenario with Internet Web site listings, Black said.

Florist Carole Duplessis of Pooh Corner Farm in Gilead also belongs to the MSFGA.

She said she knew of a case in which another MSFGA member tested the telemarketing system by placing an order, and found the consumer paid $15 more than it would cost if they had ordered through real, local Maine florists.

ASSESSORS REPLY ON TIMESHARE TAXES

To the Editor:

The General Manager of the Bethel Inn, Allen Connors, has presented seemingly reasonable arguments regarding the taxation of timeshare properties (Citizen, Jan. 22). However, we believe it is an incomplete message and feel compelled to fill in some blanks.

Under Maine's Constitution and property tax laws, real property is to be taxed according to its "just" or fair market value. Properties of like kind, and similarly situated, should therefore pay roughly equal taxes. Because value is only what a willing buyer and a willing seller agree to in a specific instance, the best information that assessors have to determine a property's just value is market data. This data is derived and collected by the assessors from sales documents, real estate listings, transfer tax forms and mortgage deeds.

In the case of timeshare properties, ownership of a single living unit is divided into as many as 51 separate interests represented by separate, recorded deeds. Our research of available sales data and registry documents demonstrates that the aggregate value of a property divided into multiple ownership is greater than the value of the same property owned by a single person. Barring introduction of new information to the contrary, we believe that aggregate value of timeshared living units increases by two to four times over the value of the same living unit held in single ownership.

This is exactly why timeshare proprietors have pursued such an economic strategy — to increase the value of a fixed asset by dividing ownership over multiple parties. For the assessors to ignore this increase in value under a timeshare scenario would be to ignore the most basic principle of property taxation — properties of like kind should pay roughly equal taxes.

This is the essence of the current disagreement. Timeshare proprietors want to see a living unit taxed as if it was owned by a single deed holder, even though there are multiple deed holders who cumulatively have paid more for the property than if it had been purchased outright by one person. The assessors believe that the value represented by each deed should be taxed according to its corresponding value.

Thank you for considering the rest of the story.

EXPLORATION AND SERVICE

To the Editor:

During the month of March, approximately 145 Telstar junior and senior students will be excused from school to participate in the annual Career Exploration/Community Service program. This unique program enables students to contact, coordinate and job shadow or work with employers of the SAD44 school district, Oxford County and work sites throughout Maine, New England and the rest of the country.

Both career exploration and community service projects assess accomplishment of aspects of the Maine Learning Results. In the past many students have also found careers that interest them and thus influence their decisions about future courses, colleges and training programs.

In the next several weeks students will be contacting businesses or individuals to arrange their career exploration experiences or community service projects. If you know of a community service project students could do or have questions about our program, please call the Guidance Office at 824-2136 ext. 308, 309 or 310.

SAD44 and the Telstar Regional High School staff are grateful for area employers, businesses and individuals who take the time, interest and patience to help high school students have successful experiences in the community.

AREA RETIREMENT VILLAGE

To the Editor:

Several Bethel residents continue to explore the feasibility of a retirement village in or near Bethel. More and more local people are reaching retirement age, and at the same time many visitors choose the Bethel area as the place they want to live in retirement. The concept of a new retirement village becomes increasingly attractive.

Many villages of the type envisioned here have been constructed and developed all over the state of Maine in recent years. The February 2004 issue of "Down East" provides detailed information about forty-three independent-living and assisted-living facilities already existing in Maine, and more are sure to follow in coming years.

On Friday, Feb. 27, at 9:30 a.m. a meeting will be held at the Bethel Historical Society's Robinson House on Broad Street in Bethel to discuss the possibilities. Interested residents of all towns in the greater Bethel community are encouraged to attend and give their input.

For more information about this developing project, please call me 824-8860.

FAIR BEAR HUNTING AND MOTHER NATURE

To the Editor:

I have some questions for you, actually it's only one. I can guarantee that some of you will get hot under the collar either because you'll feel threatened or because you're upset that this practice is going on in the first place. For those of you who don't have any feelings one way or the other, maybe this letter will help to inform you about Maine's archaic laws.

Here goes.

What do you think of this? Putting carrion, sweets and foodstuffs out for the bear and then shooting them when they come to eat. This is called baiting. Sportsman like?

What about this, then? Putting tracking collars on hounds and chasing the bear to tree and then shooting them. This is called hounding. Well, is this sportsman like?

And then there's always the old favorite and standby — trapping. Have you ever seen a bear trap? They're cruel, devilish things that snap around a bear's paw causing excruciating pain and there the bear stays in agony until the trapper comes with less of himself than he had before the trapping. Well, what do you think of that? Sportsman like?

I can hear it coming now guys. "Oh, no! Not another bleeding heart who doesn't know a d---- thing about what's going on. If we don't bait, trap and hound there will be safety issues and the number of nuisance bears will mushroom." (Boy, are my ears blistered.)

Okay guys, why don't we speak to a higher authority. Let's talk with Mother Nature. Mother Nature you have the floor.

"Well, I'm overcome but, thank you. It's not often that anyone cares about what I think. Let me say first that my bear are one of my most self-regulated animals — the number of cubs per litter and the frequency of birthing are directly regulated to available food supply. I take very good care of the population and have been doing so long before states appeared on the scene to collect money for licenses and 'regulate' the population of my creatures. And as far as danger goes, which is an understandable concern, if you checked your statistics you'd find there has never been a recorded fatality in Maine from a black bear attack. Please don't malign my creatures. And while I have the floor I'd like to express my concern for my human creatures. When you take one of my bears' lives in an unsportsmanlike way, which is not giving them a fair chance to escape, just for the fun of it or worse for financial gain, the act diminishes you and hurts you in ways that may not be apparent at the time. But make no mistake about it — hurt you it does. And by the way, why is it that no other game animal is treated so poorly and treated with so little regard. I'm being very kind in my assessment of current practices. I hope these laws will change for all my creatures. I think I've said about all you can stand to hear right now."

Well, we've heard from Mother Nature — like it or not.

I would like everyone to give serious consideration to supporting the referendum coming up. It doesn't ban bear hunting or bear management (the state still feels it must manage). It will, however, ban baiting, hounding and trapping. Colorado, Oregon and Washington have done this already and found bear licenses tripling, lest the state fear a loss of revenue. It seems that everything is money driven. Do we Mainers want to continue to be the only state in the Union that allows these practices to continue? I personally think it's shameful. Log onto www.fairbearhunting.org and read about the referendum coming up. And finally, be aware that there are organizations out there like — Sportsmen's Alliance of Maine (SAM) and the political action committee called Maine's Fish and Wildlife Conservation Council that will tell you horrible things will happen if these unhonorable practices cease — don't listen to them.

Remember Mother Nature — don't mess with her. Let's help Mother do her work, taking care of all her creatures.

THANKS TO B.W.D., CROSS EXCAVATING

To the Editor:

I would like to take a moment to stand up, take my hat off and applaud the Bethel Water District and Cross Excavating for their outstanding professionalism and efficiency. Earlier last week we had a water leak at the U.S. Forest Service Ranger Station from a hydrant that the frost line had caused to separate. The Bethel Water District was informed of our problem. We all decided on a course of action and the best way to proceed. I was very impressed with how quickly they were able to diagnose our water leak and correct the problem.

To the gentleman who operated the backhoe with such talent that it looked like this huge piece of construction equipment was part of his hand. To the gentleman in the truck who was alert enough to move his vehicle so we could safely walk around the site. To Lucien and Donny whose courtesy and knowledge made this project work as smoothly as it did. Thanks to all of you for such a great job, my hat's off to the Bethel Water District and Cross Excavating.

CALLING ALL BANJOISTS

To the Editor:

I need help to form a banjo club in western Maine. Our purpose would be to have fun playing goodies and oldies. Tenor, plectrum, five-string banjitar, mandolins, tubas, bases and "wash-boardists," please join. This is to be a club, so all skill levels are welcome.

I envision a weekly practice in the greater Bethel area, with an occasional "gig." All members would have equal votes in deciding our activities. Anyone who plays by ear, great. Anyone who reads music, great. I expect we would create our own arrangements and try to include all of our favorite songs in our repertoire.

So call me (875-2680). As soon as I find one other banjoist, we'll start.

SNOWBOX DERBY THANKS

To the Editor:

The Snowbox Derby Committee of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce would like to thank all who helped to make last Saturday's fourth annual Great Snowbox Derby such a howling success. The event was a wonderful example of the community culture of Bethel. From the school administrators, teachers, and custodians who accommodated the physical and scheduling disruption during the design and construction phase to the adult mentors who volunteered their time to give third, fourth and fifth-grade students a beginning understanding of the engineering and production process to The Bethel Inn staff and the staff of the Nordic Center who prepared the course, provided bathrooms and served food to the volunteer timers and judges and the parents grandparents, aunts, uncles, siblings and area visitors who cheered each sled down the hill, everyone made the day extremely fun and memorable.

The Bethel area is many things, and people from other places are coming here in increasing numbers to enjoy our mountains, rivers, lakes and beautiful villages. The real resource of this place, though, is its people and, in particular, our desire to support and affirm our children. Nowhere was that more evident than out on the first tee of the Bethel Inn golf course when incredible sleds designed, created and manned by young teams, race downhill and provide entertainment for all.

Many thanks to everyone who made the event possible.

NEWS, MAGS AND JUNK MAIL — ALL TOGETHER NOW

To the Editor:

There seems to be some confusion on how to recycle newspapers, magazines and junk mail. In the past they had to be separated. Now it is easier. All three categories of items can now be included in the same container. And envelopes, with or without windows, can also be included.

For further information on how to properly recycle all products, please ask your local recycling attendant for a copy of our latest handout.

for one employee per 10 miles of town-maintained roads, and Greenwood maintains approximately 40 miles.

An increase of $12,000 is also being proposed for the Solid Waste Account, which would bring it to $76,000.

But, in addition, another $13,000 will also be needed to cover an overdraft from last year in that account.

At Town Meeting in 2003 voters allocated $64,500 for solid waste costs, but the actual amount spent over the course of the year was driven up by increases in tipping and hauling fees, Whitman said.

Major proposed road repairs and upgrades are also driving up the budget.

They include: $90,360 for the Old County Road; $12,742 for Young Hill Road; $13,745 for the Yates Road; and $32,228 to continue ongoing work on the Greenwood Road.

On the Old County Road project, Whitman said, the budget calls for tapping $46,000 in state road aid.

If all the road projects are approved, she said, the cost to taxpayers would go up by nearly $50,000.

Partially offsetting the various budget increases is a $10,000 drop in the Dams Account.

Last year voters approved $15,000, largely for the Alder

River dam. This year selectmen expect that the town will take out a loan to pay for an overhaul of the dam, and they have budgeted $5,000 to cover a year's worth of principal and interest.

Also absent from this year's budget is $48,000 that was raised last year to offset a mistake in setting the tax rate.

School taxes are projected at $611,000, up 3 percent. County taxes at $53,500, down slightly, Whitman said.

Greenwood's 2004 annual Town Meeting will be held March 10, beginning at 10 p.m. in the Town Hall in Locke Mills village.

SAD44 teachers get raise

ANDOVER — The SAD44 School Board Monday unanimously approved a three-year salary agreement with teachers and support personnel. The raises would increase the 2004-2005 school budget by about $150,000. Under the agreement, teachers will receive an average 4.2 percent raise the first year, and 3.9 percent in each of the second and third years. Starting teachers with a bachelor's degree would be paid $25,535 next year. Those at the top of the pay scale (with 21 or more years of experience) would be paid $42,350. Support staff, such as secretaries and educational technicians, would receive a 3.5 percent pay increase, while coaches and advisors would get an average 4 percent. The district's share of employee health benefits, paid as a percentage, will now be based on a health plan that is less expensive than the current plan, according to Supt. Dave Murphy. The change will provide some savings to the district, he said. The new agreement was approved by the Telstar Educators' Association last week, Murphy said.

Public meeting on ladder truck

NEWRY — The Newry Fire Department will hold a public informational meeting Monday evening regarding the town's proposal to purchase a new ladder truck. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. at the Bear River Fire Station. Townspeople will vote on the proposal at the March 1 Town Meeting.

Saturday meeting approved

WEST PARIS — After learning the results of a citizen survey, selectmen Thursday decided to hold the annual Town Meeting Saturday, March 6. The survey was in response to a request from some townspeople to hold the meeting on a Tuesday so people who observed the Sabbath on Saturday could attend. A total of 1,000 surveys were sent out. Of those responding, 295 preferred Saturday and 161 Tuesday. The meeting will take place at the Agnes Gray School gym at 10 a.m.

County can get disaster aid

AUGUSTA — Gov. John Baldacci announced last week that President Bush has declared six Maine counties, including Oxford, eligible for disaster assistance following heavy rains and flooding in December. The governor requested the assistance in a letter to the president early in January. He had made a number of trips to the impacted areas around the Christmas holiday, joined by State Sen. Bruce Bryant (D-Oxford). The disaster assistance granted will reimburse communities for up to 75 percent of the cost of damages to public property during rain events from Dec. 11 to 31. Towns in the affected counties had reported numerous road washouts and damage to public buildings and water and sewer utilities. The damage statewide was estimated at $1.5 million. Costs eligible for reimbursement include emergency work such as debris removal and emergency protective measures; or permanent work including repair of roads and bridges, water control facilities, buildings and equipment, utilities and parks, recreational facilities and other public items and places. The declaration also makes cost-shared funding available to the state for approved projects that reduce future disaster risks.

Man sentenced in repair scam

PARIS — A Casco man was given an 11-month jail sentence for a home repair scam against an elderly Waterford resident. Dennis J. Phillip, 26, pled guilty Monday in Oxford County Superior Court to charges of home repair fraud and theft by deception. He was also ordered to pay $1,840 in restitution. Phillip was arrested a year ago after a complaint of a forged check. He had cut tree limbs at a home, then altered an $18.50 check for the work to $1,850.

Some Rite Aids reduce hours

PORTLAND — Maine's largest pharmacy chain is reducing its operating hours at nine of its 80 stores following cuts in state Medicaid reimbursements for prescription drugs. The Rite Aid in Bethel is not one of the stores affected. Rite Aid Corp. made the move last week, after the Maine-based Community Pharmacies chain said it was eliminating 10 jobs and reducing hours at its 15 drugstores because of the lower reimbursements. Rite Aid said it was shortening the hours of operation at its pharmacies in Dexter, Oakland, Milo, Augusta, Van Buren, Fort Fairfield, Manchester, Lisbon Falls and Bar Harbor. The chain said no job cuts were planned, and the hours of non-pharmacy operations were unchanged. The reimbursements involve state payments for brand-name drugs sold to Medicaid recipients. The state lowered its reimbursement rate to pharmacies from 87 percent of the average wholesale price of the drugs to 85 percent. In addition, Rite Aid and Community Pharmacies are among the two-thirds of the state's 300 pharmacies that have chosen not to participate in the state's Maine Rx Plus program, which provides prescription-drug discounts to 275,000 lower-income residents. The pharmacy chains contend that their profit margins are too small to accommodate more discount customers.

Book signing at Books 'N Things

BETHEL — A book-signing with Mary Nyman, author of "When Leaves Fall," will take place Wednesday, Feb. 18 from 1 to 3 p.m. at Books 'N Things. Nyman, a retired high school and college English teacher, has a home in Locke Mills. The action novel is about a teenager who is confronted with danger and death, then makes a decision that saves his life and helps him face an addiction problem. The book is available through Amazon.com, iUniverse.com, and seascapeset@aol.com. Nyman is also the author of a textbook, a book of verse and a children's book. She is a graduate of Wheaton College and Boston University Graduate School.

Vets' Service Office visit changed

PARIS — The regular visit by the Veterans' Service Office to the Maine Veterans' Home in Paris for Feb. 18 has been cancelled. The officer will be there March 3 from 9 a.m. to 12.

Asian insect threatens hemlocks

BANGOR — A voracious insect that threatens hemlock trees has established itself in York County, infesting an estimated 600 acres, according to the Maine Forest Service. The hemlock woolly adelgid started killing trees in southern New England decades ago and foresters had said it was probably only a matter of time before it showed up in Maine. The state has been under quarantine since 2000, banning the importation of nursery hemlocks for fear they could spread the bug. The adelgids feed on the sap of hemlock trees; a fully infested tree can die within five years. In Maine, which relies on hemlock for 10 percent of its pulpwood, an infestation would be disastrous. The state is pursuing substantial federal grant money to attack the infestation once the snow melts in the spring. The state has been experimenting with predatory Asian beetles that have shown promise against adelgids in the lab. Beetles most likely will be released next spring. Pesticide applications also have been effective in some places.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Tuesday, Feb. 3

At 12:35 p.m. police noted that chip trucks operating on Route 2 between New Hampshire and Rumford have been "pushing the envelope" on the posted speed limit. The officer stopped a truck in West Bethel, spoke with the driver and asked he pass the word to other drivers that the BPD would direct much more attention to their driving unless the drivers policed themselves. The driver said he would pass the information along.

Wednesday, Feb. 4

At 10 a.m. a male subject notified police of his status as a registered sex offender, in accordance with state law.

At 4:35 p.m. police received a report that a vehicle was off the road on Route 26. The vehicle appeared to have rammed into a snowbank. The subject became verbally abusive, and the officer noted signs of intoxication. Jennifer A. Hanso, 28, of Braintree, Mass., was arrested.

At 8:35 p.m. police received a report of a fight in progress at a Vernon Street location. When the officer arrived, the subjects denied any assault took place. An injured male subject said a cut near his eye was self-inflicted.

Sunday, Feb. 8

At 7 a.m. police received a report of the theft of a white station wagon on the West Bethel Road.

Monday, Feb. 9

At 4:29 a.m. police responded to a fire/smoke alarm at a Main Street inn. The staff completed an evacuation and accounting of guests. The Fire Department also responded. The source of smoke appeared to have been a malfunction in the boiler, which caused exhaust to be vented into the building.

his own agenda. Woodstock Selectman Steve Bies presented the case against Roberts' action. "We in Woodstock were very concerned when we saw your flyer, Ivan," Bies said. He noted two causes for concern.

"It wasn't what we thought we had decided," Bies said, and "people are going to come expecting to talk about things that are not on the agenda." Bies said he and others feared, "what we wanted to get done won't get done because you've inflamed some people."

He also argued that in the larger picture a committee had to pull together to work effectively.

"In order for the committee to work together, decisions by the committee are decisions by the committee and don't get contravened by one person."

Roberts did not appear to accept that reasoning. As the discussion wore on he repeatedly turned it back to the details of his various concerns, and he maintained that if he thought an issue needed to be addressed, it was his right and duty as a citizen to put those issues forward.

"To say that I don't have a right and have to go along with what the committee says is taking away my rights," he said.

have brought those to all of us and not acted like the Lone Ranger."

But Roberts replied that when he attempted to raise issues at committee meetings his motions either were not seconded or were tabled.

(That was certainly the case possible changes by December of this year — in time to be included in next year's annual town meetings.

And Roberts ultimately apologized for the manner in which he presented his issues in the flyer, saying he "misunderstood" the intent of the committee.

Beyond that, however, it appeared the discussion had changed no minds. Near the end of the meeting Bies said to Roberts: "I don't know how I'm going to work with you if the committee can't make a decision without you twisting it around and doing something different with it."

Roberts replied: "You know what, Steve? Personally — you can take this any way you like to — I don't know how I can work with you. ... You don't like me, fine. I don't like you, and that's fine. And we'll just let the voters take care of it when we come up for reelection."

Tuesday's hearing will be held at the Woodstock Elementary School, beginning at 7 p.m..

Monday. Two motions by Roberts were not seconded, and he was also on the losing end of at least two 5-1 votes.)

The committee members Monday did agree to look into the distribution of costs between the two towns, and to make recommendations for

You know what, Steve? Personally — you can take this any way you like to — I don't know how I can work with you. ...

You don't like me, fine. I don't like you, and that's fine. And we'll just let the voters take care of it when we come up for reelection.

Other committee members countered that Roberts certainly had the right to raise any issue he cared to — but not in the manner he chose in circulating the flyer.

Woodstock Selectman Leon Poland said: "Ivan, as far as I'm concerned you should

Commute

RUSS CARTER

Rather than have the logging road to his house plowed, Russ parks his truck in a parking lot adjacent to the Carter ski trails. It's about three-quarters of a mile from his house.

The logging road serves as a ski trail in winter, so Russ uses it as a commuting corridor to ski to his truck.

He doesn't see it as a particularly unusual practice. "People who live in town walk half a mile everywhere," he said. "That's my mindset."

And like the walkers, he must dress carefully to venture out in conditions like the ones Bethel experienced in January. But he takes that in stride, too.

"If you dress properly, you can ski in almost anything," Russ said. That means layers keep in the warmth, he said.

Does he ever worry he might have a mishap heading out before dawn in subzero weather?

Not really, he said. But, he admits, one morning last month when it was -21 with a 25 mph wind, "I stuck my cell

You can sit back and relax. Time just disappears.'

phone in my pocket."

Sometimes he skis to work in total darkness, when he works the overnight shift at the Foodliner. He wears a headlamp to light the way.

Russ said the toughest part of the commute is in the early spring, "when it's cold in the morning and warm at the end of the day."

Again, it's layers of clothing, but this time they come off or go on depending on the time of day.

To carry things back and forth, Russ wears a backpack. Groceries are brought in a few at a time — there are no big shopping days, he said.

His biggest challenge, Russ said, came during the ice storm of 1998. It took him three hours to work his way to his house. He couldn't drive any closer than the ski lodge, about two-and-a-half miles away.

"I had to get an ax," he said, to cut away all the downed trees along the snowmobile trail he used to get to the house.

But once he got home to his generator and gas lighting, life for him was normal — far different than for people without electricity everywhere else in the area.

"I didn't experience the two weeks of misery everyone else did," he said.

So to preserve his independent lifestyle in a beautiful and peaceful setting, he's happy to make the extra effort to get himself and his supplies back and forth.

When the work and commuting are done, he said, "You can sit back and relax. Time just disappears."

Pipes

He said BWD has been in direct contact with about a dozen customers who are most likely to have trouble. They are advised to run their water at a trickle continually.

And if they are headed for Florida or somewhere else for a week, he said, it would be a good idea to have someone come in and run the water each day.

Katlin said that like last year, he has also heard of people with private wells who have had pipes freeze between their well and their house. There have also been some septic system freezes.

"It's especially a problem if the ground over the line is plowed," he said, because there is no snow to act as insulation.

Waterford

by Rockie Graham

Sunday was caucus day and the Waterford

Town Office was home to the Democratic Caucus. There was a record number of people there with some 43 votes being cast for the Democratic hopeful of choice. Much like in the rest of the country, Kerry got the most votes. Waterford gets to send four delegates to the Democratic State Convention in May, and based on the votes cast, Kerry got three delegates and Dean got one. There were votes for other candidates but not enough to win them a delegate. Municipal officers and committee members were also appointed.

Important meeting coming up today. A public hearing is being held at 7:30 p.m. at the Waterford Municipal Building about the Town Warrant article proposing the prohibition of personal watercraft on Keoka Lake.

DEMOCRATS TURN OUT

The regional Democratic Caucus held on Sunday, Feb. 8, attracted a record turnout of 115 people participating in municipal caucuses for Bethel, Newry, Gilead, Greenwood, Woodstock, Hanover and Albany Township. Milton Plantation and Mason Township caucus with the towns of Woodstock and Bethel respectively. Sen. John Kerry of Massachusetts won the most delegates to the State Convention, securing one delegate each in Gilead, Hanover, Woodstock, Albany and Newry, two in Greenwood, and three in Bethel for a total of 10. Former Vermont Gov. Howard Dean secured two delegates in Bethel and one in Woodstock. U.S. Rep. Dennis Kucinick won a single delegate in Woodstock, and retired General Wesley Clark and U.S. Sen. John Edwards each won a delegate in Bethel. Attendance in individual towns including absentee voters was Bethel 57, Woodstock 21, Greenwood 10, Newry 14, Albany 11, Gilead 1 and Hanover 1. There were a significant number of unenrolled voters registering as Democrats, as well as a handful of new voter registrations, according to Cathy Newell, Oxford County Democratic chairman. Here, Team captain Tim Carter, surrounded by Kerry supporters, counts up caucus members standing in the Kerry corner at Bethel's Caucus. (Photo by Andree Kehn)

Gwyneth Bohr has returned from spending a week in Washington, D.C. where she attended the College for Preachers. She spent the weekend in Virginia with a friend. The weather was terrible but she had a good time.

Winners of last week's exciting Duplicate Bridge game held at Fare Share Commons, Norway, were: first, Marta
Clements and Nancy Farmer; second, Eleanor Griffin and Harry Richardson; third, Martine Begert and David Lock.

Winter must be on the wane. We only had to have the driveway plowed twice last week. It was worth your life to venture out for a walk. The winds and blowing snow across the lake were tremendous pounding snow into hard-as-rock drifts. Some places on the lake were blown down to bare ice. The Arctic has nothing on us.

Larry Nelson, Bob Folsom, Fred and Don Hartrick and Leon Hawkinson took their annual long snowmobile tour last week. This year they opted for New Hampshire instead of Jackman, Pittsburg, N.H. was their first destination, then on to Franconia Notch and Lincoln, N.H. Good riding in the daylight, and poker games at night made for a fun trip.
Next year's goal will probably be Quebec City or Baffin Island.

A tentative date of March 4 is planned for the annual Town Meeting. No earth shattering articles are on the warrant as yet.

Liz Stanczyk traveled to Durham, Maine, to visit with son Frank and family over the weekend.

Terry Karkos visited us last week. Terry is a reporter with the Lewiston Sun and writes very interesting articles.
His recent article on Cindy Scribner was picked up by the Associated Press. We received calls from Chicago and Massachusetts from people who read the article in their local newspapers.

Simonne Lavallee and I attended the memorial service for Fran Coffin in Errol. There were hundreds of people attending. Both floors of the Errol Congregational Church were occupied. Many stood on the porch outside. A fitting tribute to a friend, selectman and all-around good citizen.

Pok Sun and David Lane
visited over the weekend.

Presidential caucuses were held this past weekend. The Republican caucus was held at the Upton Town Office.
There was no Democrat caucus held in town. This time it appears that George "W" and John "F" will be in the forefront in November. I prefer the privacy of a "primary" myself. Our election process is not perfect but it's the only one we have and are lucky to live in a country where we can exercise the right to vote.

Bird flu has not reached Upton. Since we only have about eighteen chickens in town, I don't think we have much of a worry. Speaking of birds, we are still in a stalemate with the same feathered friends. By the end of February we usually see our first red-winged blackbird, grackles and starlings. This year they better wear their winter plumage. The two local turkeys are the "Birds of the Week." They sure are ugly but a lot of fun to watch. It has to be cabin fever when two turkeys can entertain you.

DBA: Pleasant River Motel

Bob and Pat McCartney are the new owners of the Pleasant River Motel on Route 2 in West Bethel (836-3575). They plan several improvements and new attractions. Many of the motel's 18 rooms will be refurbished. They also expect to establish a connection to a nearby trail that is the main snowmobile route west toward New Hampshire. In warmer weather, the couple will promote Pleasant River's proximity to the area's summer recreation opportunities, such as hiking, mountain biking and river sports. Pat has previous experience in the motel business. The couple is shown here with their official greeter, Muffin.

Greenwood City

by Rena Curtis

Another week but it has warmed up some, which seems good. We did get a little snow, not that much, though they did plow.

Marie Curtis made a nice quilt for her parents, Thomas and Iva Bragg, of Sumner. It had pictures of their whole family. She did a good job on it. They were very pleased.

Keith and Kevin Curtis of Norway called on me Saturday.

Carl Curtis has been sick with the flu that's been going around.

Stephen Cogswell was here from Freeport Friday. He took me down to the eye doctor. Had good news — didn't need new glasses.

My daughter, Evelyn, was over Sunday from Rumford. We went out to lunch and also went shopping.

One morning I saw a car drive up and stop out in front of my trailer. A fellow got out and grabbed a dog and beat it with his fists then threw it into the car. I was not very happy, as the dog didn't know why it was getting hurt and dogs are such good companions. It reminded me of the poem about a dog they had made a lot of then hitched it out and ignored it. The dog wondered what he had done. I am a dog and cat person. I have one of each. They both stay in, though I take the dog out when he needs to go out.

Brad Payne went up to Greenville to ride in the Ricky Craven ride for the Make A Wish Foundation.

Ann Holt attended the Andrew Harvin funeral services at the Mission Congregation Church at West Paris.

Ann Holt visited her Aunt Clis. on Monday.

David Holt came up and he and Ann, along with their mother and father, Fay and Leonas Holt, celebrated Ann's birthday.

Quote of the week: "We need some clouds in our life to make a beautiful sunset."

That's it for this week. Have a safe and happy one.

East Stoneham

by
Eleanor Nelson

Hi readers. Frances Grant and Eleanor Nelson visited with Wilma Taylor at the Norway Rehab and Living Center on Tuesday and had lunch with her, which was nice. We all enjoyed the visit. It was a nice day. We also went to the doctor's office and lab at the hospital and to get groceries, so it was a busy but fun day. We knew it was going to storm the next day, which it did. Now we are looking for another storm, but it's nice and sunny out today.

Well, "Katie" had company yesterday, too. Beverly Chapman brought Katie's great-granddaughter, "Annie" in to visit. They had a great time together. Beverly raises chocolate labs. She has quite a few at her kennel here in Stoneham and they are very well trained. She is taking one to a dog show in April. That must be fun.

Don't forget to give your loved one a happy Valentine card for Saturday, Feb. 14.

Church services are being held at the North Waterford Church at 10 a.m. during the winter months. Hope to see you there.

Mary Grover is spending the winter in Boothbay, near her daughter Peggy and family. We miss you, Mary. The choir doesn't look right without you there. Hope you have a good winter.

Not much is going on here in Stoneham the past few days, so will close and talk to you next week.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

For all you baby boomers this is a special anniversary week. Most of you will remember "Something" about it. Forty years ago The Beatles made their first visit to the United States to appear on the Ed Sullivan Show. The date was February 9, 1964, but it seems like only "Yesterday."

I was so excited even though I didn't know very much about The Beatles at that time. I had no idea that the world of rock 'n' roll was about to experience a musical "Revolution." My father wanted to change the channel and watch Bonanza or whatever else was on, but I said please, please, please "Let It Be."

We argued a little about it, but I was Daddy's little girl and I just knew that we could "Come Together". All I had to do was "Act Naturally" which meant putting and enlisting a little "Help" from my mother. "We Can Work It Out" she told me. "Just go to your room until 'I Call Your Name'."

The next thing I knew my mother called to me and "I Saw Her Standing There" with a big grin on her face. The Ed Sullivan Show was on and history was about to be made. My mother sat down on the couch next to me and whispered in my ear "Do You Want To Know A Secret?" "Your father had planned to let you watch The Beatles all along though he thinks it's stupid. 'I Should Have Known Better' than to think Daddy wouldn't let me have my way."

So, like millions of other Americans, my family and I watched The Beatles first ever appearance on television in this country. I'm sure it was "A Hard Days Night" for them performing five fantastic songs after a long plane ride. I know I'll never forget it even "When I'm Sixty-four."

When the show was over all I could talk about was The Beatles. How great they were. How cute they were, how from that time on the Fab Four would have "All My Loving."

My father thought I was being silly and said "Tell Me Why" you think those long haired yahoos deserve any love from you at all?"

Then he reminded me that I had promised him I would go right to bed after the show.

"Don't Let Me Down," a promise is a promise and you need your "Golden Slumber," he said.

I told myself right then "You've Got To Hide Your Love Away," at least from Daddy. I knew it would be a "Long And Winding Road" before I could convince him to give me the money to buy The Beatles album, but "Once There Was A Way" for me to obtain it I would play it over and over.

I couldn't wait for the next day to see if my best friends, "Penny Lane" and the "Lovely Rita" (that was her nickname because she was so lovely) had watched the Ed Sullivan Show. I knew they would be as crazy about the Fab Four as I was.

I jumped out of bed the next morning when the first rays of sun came through my bedroom window. "Good Day Sunshine" I said as I ran downstairs and grabbed a piece of toast and ran out the door. My mother handed me a "Ticket To Ride" the bus and I said "Hello, Goodbye" and away I went.

it seems like only "Yesterday"

My steady boyfriend was waiting for me at the bus stop. "Hey Jude" I said. "Did you see The Beatles last night? Weren't they great? Aren't they just so cute?" Jude had watched the show and he thought The Beatles were great, but he didn't think they were all that cute and couldn't understand why I did.

I usually had Jude on my mind "Eight Days A Week," but all I could think about right then was John, Paul, George and Ringo.

Jude reminded me that the Valentine's Day dance was that weekend and I had promised him I would go with him. I said I didn't have permission from my parents yet, but "With A Little Help From My Friends" to convince them that everyone was going and I would look like "The Fool On The Hill" if I didn't go, they would give in.

Jude was relieved a few days later when I told him I could go. "Without you to by my side I'm 'Nowhere Man,'" he said.

This was to be our first real date and Jude had just gotten his driver's license and bought his first car and we were both pretty excited. "I can't wait to 'Drive My Car' and take you to the dance," he said.

The big day finally came and everything seemed to be falling apart. My hair wouldn't do what I wanted it to, my dress was too long by my standards though just right by my parents. The Jude arrived and gave me a "Savoy Truffle" for Valentine's Day and a card that said how wonderful I was and signed "P.S., I Love You." Suddenly everything was perfect.

My father told Jude what time he had to have me home and told him if we were late "Maxwell's Silver Hammer" would come down upon his head.

I felt like we were on a "Magical Mystery Tour" as we drove off to the dance. Jude said "Tonight is special and 'I Want To Hold Your Hand' all evening." And I said that when we danced he should "Hold Me Tight." And he said "If I don't 'I'm A Loser.' And believe me, Jude was no loser!"

We got to the dance and The Beatles were playing on the record player their number one hit, "She Loves You, Yeah, Yeah, Yeah" and everyone was singing along. Then that horrible "Eleanor Rigby" showed up wearing the same dress I had on! I was so mad! I was going to go tell her a thing or two and started across the room. Jude took my hand and said "Get Back" here, she doesn't matter because "All You Need Is Love" and you've got that with me.

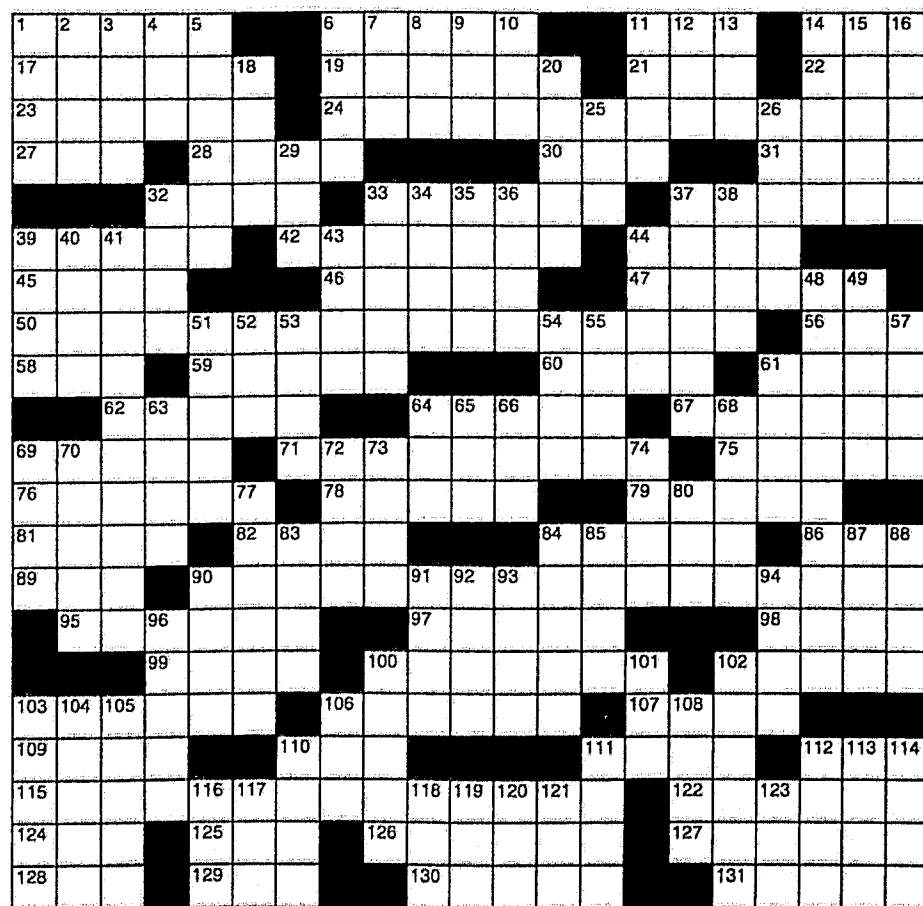

That was such a long time ago, 40 years to be exact. It all seems sort of silly now looking back at the Beatlemania that followed the Ed Sullivan Show. Jude went off with "Lucy In The Sky With Diamonds" and I'm sort of a "Paperback Writer" of not much fame.

John and George have gone to "Strawberry Fields Forever" and Ringo and Paul are aging right along with the rest of us baby boomers. "Rocky Raccoon" and an "Octopus's Garden" are mere memories, but the way I see it the Fab Four will be rock cultural icons forever. "Ob-La-Di, Ob-La-Da," long live The Beatles.

Norway Nursing Home. She would have been 100 years old on April 26. She leaves two daughters, Ruth Hazelton and Maxine Cram and a son, Raymond Farr, Jr. She is also survived by 12 grandchildren, 23 great-grandchildren, and 15 great-great-grandchildren. She had been an active member of the West Paris Grange for over 60 years and a member of the Universalist Church. Her funeral was at the Andrews Funeral Home on Sunday.

Olga Gellatly, 99, died Friday in Auburn. For many years, in her youth and in retirement, she resided in West Paris and was an active member of the community. Her piano and organ playing were enjoyed by all. She was a member of the Universalist Church, where she was organist. Memorial services were held on Wednesday.

A benefit supper for Vance and Connie Bacon was held by the Rescue Unit, the Firemen's Association, and the Universalist Church at the church on Friday. There was a good attendance in spite of the snowstorm.

Ken Lamb and children Kaleb, Kyle, Catherine and Carolyn and friends enjoyed their Sunday evening at Western Auto watching the Super Bowl on a 61-inch screen. All kinds of refreshments were available to them. Ken won the evening of fun in a drawing at the store. Their pictures have been in the daily paper twice this week.

On Feb. 15 at the Universalist Church in West Paris the Rev. Joy Gasta will speak on "Love on Cold Mountain." This popular book and movie shows how land itself, each parcel with its own personality, is like a person or a state of mind, always with us. Jim Burke is organist. All are welcome.

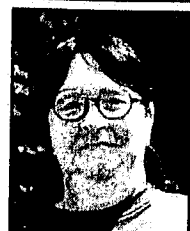

I called on Edith and Ivan Morey this past week in Locke Mills. They are doing well and Ivan feels well and can drive and do about anything he desires. Their daughter is with them to help. I was on my way home from Bethel where I got my hair trimmed.

Virginia Aridas has returned to her home in North Paris after two weeks in Florida. What a difference in temperature and sun.

Buffy was out wading in the new soft snow up behind the garage, and when he came in was dragging a belly full of snowballs. That was better than the garden dirt that he accumulates after the garden is plowed in the spring.

Andover

My condolences to the family and friends of former Andover resident Armand G. Michaud, who died Saturday, Feb. 7, in Skowhegan. His wife, Florence, lives in Skowhegan. Cards would be nice.

Arthur Hutchins came through his operation very well, and will be at home recuperating when you read this.

The annual Snow Valley Sno-Goers Poker Run will be this Saturday, Feb. 14, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Benefit Auction, to raise money to send the eighth-grade participants to the People to People Conference in Washington, has been rescheduled for Saturday, March 6. It will be held at the Telstar Auditorium starting at 7 p.m. It was cancelled because of the inclement weather we had last weekend.

Congratulations to East Andover resident Mandy Davis who made the dean's list at UMF. She is the daughter of East Andover residents Bette and Foster Davis. Their other daughter, Erika, went on a vacation trip to Quebec recently. There were two buses of vacationers and when they got to their hotel they found out that reservations had been made for only one busload. Sort of sounds like the "vacation from hell," doesn't it? But everything worked out well and nobody had to sleep in the bus and everybody had a good time.

Marjorie Stinson has left for an indefinite vacation in Grand Rapids, Mich. She will be staying with her daughter, Jean Shafer, and I have her address if anyone wishes to send cards. She gets kind of homesick and loves to receive mail.

To all you men out there, don't forget that this Saturday, Feb. 14, is Valentine's Day. Roses, dinner at a nice restaurant, and diamonds, make really nice gifts. I'm not reminding the women, because they already have everything planned. This is a woman thing.

It seems that I have been putting the wrong date for the Bicentennial Carnival Ball in my column. The correct date for the ball is Saturday, Feb. 28. On Sunday, Feb. 29, there will be a Snow Man Contest. For further information on the contest you can contact the AES.

How can you tell if you are a Red Neck? If you mow your lawn and find a car. See ya.

Barbara Honkala will be going to Finland this summer with the kantele group. She has tickets for the raffle. They are $50 each for a $5,000 prize. Get together with friends or family for one ticket and split the prize.

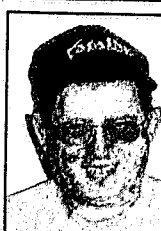

Paul and Charlotte Kimball hosted a birthday party for Jim Kimball on Feb. 8. Velora Tuominen and her two girls of North Norway also attended.

Florence Hastings' grandson, Paul Morton of Norway, visited on Feb. 8. Daisy Coolidge attended a birthday party for her grandson, Kurt Mason, on Feb. 8, at Peter and Christen Mason's home in West Bethel.

The cold has come back. It can't hang around too much longer.

Have a nice week.
God Bless the Troops.

Hanover

by Clem Worcester

The Hanover Planning Board met on Wednesday,

Feb. 4, to consider an application of a South Shore Road property owner who had planned to build a new structure on his property. His plan as proposed was unanimously rejected by the board.

The Hanover Selectboard will meet on Monday, Feb. 16, at the Town Office at 5 p.m. At 6 p.m. the Community Neighborhood Watch group will meet at the Town Office. The guest speaker will be Animal Control Officer Osman Hart. This will be the first meeting of the group this year and the first meeting for some time.

Deputy Clerk Kelly Crockett recently attended a daylong workshop in Augusta about town meetings and elections.

Hanover Democrats met for their caucus on Sunday, Feb. 8, at Telstar Regional High School.

Samuel T. Brown III had a close call last week when he opened the window on his truck, put his head outside and then proceeded to close the window trapping his neck in between. He was assisted in his rescue.

Joan Tucker has been feeling poorly lately and has been going for doctor visits. We wish her a speedy recovery.

On Sunday there seemed to be an unusually large number of cars parked at the Town Office and some folks thought it was some kind of secret Town Meeting to pull over a fast one. Nothing like that was true at all, for it was only the Knights of Pythias having a meeting to discuss their plans to have their annual convention at the Sunday River Ski Resort. After the meeting some folks went to Sunday River for further discussions and others went home. Some came from as far away as Milbridge and Machiasport.

Recent trips for local officers of the Knights of Pythias, Freeman Farrington, Craig Turner and Clem Worcester, have been to Strong to attend an Official Visit and Installation of Officers and to Brunswick for a Joint Installation.

A vehicle fire at Powell Place brought the Rumford Fire Department to Hanover on a cold and windy Sunday afternoon. There was no report of injuries or damage other than the vehicle.

We hope everyone enjoys Valentine's Day when the Town of Hanover will be 161 years in existence.

An article last week in the Lewiston Sun newspaper "burst one of my bubbles." According to the article (which I have misplaced) my story about "Capt. Kangaroo" being a war hero was not true. Official Navy records supposedly show that Bob Keeshan did, in fact, enlist into the U.S. Marines in 1945, but too late to be involved in the action on Iwo Jima. This article also said that the bogus story was repeatedly sent over the Internet in e-mails. If this is the case, I wonder where the supposed story told by Lee Marvin came from. Surely, he would not have made up such a tale. At any rate, I apologize for passing on an untrue fabrication.

Last week's snows finally provided some good cross-country skiing, after weeks of hard packed and icy snow left over from the December snow and rain. I took out my trusty snowmobile and my home-made trail groomer and spent several hours grooming our trails, leaving them pretty smooth and wide. Just right for good cross-country skiing. Only trouble is, it seems like about as soon as I get a trail smooth, somebody comes along with another snowmobile and ruts it up. Bummer.

Albany

by Dana & Sheila Dyke

Greetings and hello from Albany Township. The warmer weather is making us think of spring. Of course, that means mud season, but, hey. Warm weather — it's worth the mud tracking in on the kitchen floor. The warm sun is shining through right now as this is being typed, and it does feel nice.

Pam Rugg and Franklin Barton each celebrated their birthdays last Wednesday, Feb. 4. Happy Birthday to both, and we wish you many, many more.

We had our CMA meeting last night and learned some good news with regard to Faith Waterman. First of all, the family would like to thank you for your prayers and financial support — they have helped so much. Without the support of family, friends and strangers Committee. It was also voted to pay for two high school students to attend the Oxford County Republican Lincoln Day Dinner to be held at the Bethel Inn on Saturday, Feb. 28. Senator Susan Collins will be the featured guest.

Representative Jodrey then informed the group about the Republican candidate for the United States Second Congressional District of Maine, Brian Hamel. Hamel is the CEO at the former Loring Air Force Base in Aroostock County, which he has helped transform into more than 1,200 well-paying jobs with benefits for people in the area. The transformation of the abandoned base is certainly one of the bright spots in the slow Maine economy. Register of Probate for Oxford County, Tom Winsor, spoke about his first term and plans for continued improvement. Both Jodrey and Winsor circulated petitions for the November elections.

On Feb. 18, at 7:30 p.m., Francis Brautigam, Regional Fisheries Biologist for Maine Department of Inland Fish and Wildlife will address the Mollycokett Chapter of Trout Unlimited at the Trolley House Restaurant, 237 Main Street, Norway, Dinner is at 6:30 p.m.

Brautigam's talk will provide a summary of some key projects and issues that have been the focus of Sebago Lake Region fisheries biologists over the last year. The planned presentation will provide fishery management updates for Sebago Lake, Thompson Lake, and Auburn Lake; preliminary findings of the experimental rainbow trout stocking study; and pond reclamation efforts. Illegal fish introductions will be a common theme throughout the presentation, and depending on the audience's interests other fishery management issues can be discussed.

The second weekend of Bethel WinterFest 2004 was also blessed with good, although slightly cold and windy weather. On Saturday, the Great Snowbox Derby, which was held at the Bethel Inn X-C Ski and Snowshoe Center and sponsored by Oxford Networks, was a wonderful success due to the commitment of the organizing committee and the classroom "mentors." Overall coordinators Steve Wight, Seabury Lyon, Kathy Thrall and Irene McGrew made the event happen. They recruited and encouraged 15 adult mentors from the community and schools to work with the third, fourth and fifth-graders of CPS and Woodstock Elementary schools. The participating teachers needed to make room in their schedules to accommodate this group activity. Many thanks to the following mentors: Pat Roma, Doug Beaton, Seabury Lyon, Larry Engdahl, Jonathan and Kate Goldberg, Dean and Deb Richmond, Emily Beers, Bruce Pierce, Joe Bailey, Bobby Lowell, Richard Chase, Jessica Hartford and Scott Hynek. And "hats off" to the following teachers for their cooperation: Shirley Merrill, Jason Manjourides, Judy Coolidge, Kasey Jeroma, Lori Dave, Eileen Stack, Mike Ort, Marie Keane, Linda Kuzyk, Kathy Burke, Elaine Ferland, and Karen Wilson. A huge thanks is owed to the Bethel Inn X-C Ski and Snowshoe Center for hosting the event and to Kirk Siegel, Mike Cooper and Roger Smith for their overall support.

The Bethel Outing Club did a wonderful job with the Flying Moose Classic X-C Ski Race on Sunday on the Gould Academy trails. To view the results, go to www.smithreuter.com/moose

Gilead Bicentennial Committee

The committee has been busy making plans for the Spaghetti Supper at Bog Brook on Feb. 21. We still have a few tickets left. The first serving will be at 5 p.m. and the second at 6:30 p.m. The cost is $6 for adults and $3 for 5-12 year olds. Come and join your friends and neighbors for a great meal followed by music played by some of the locals.

The raffle drawing for the two gift vouchers from the Bethel Inn and Country Club will be drawn at the supper. It's not too late to buy tickets. Just contact a member of the committee. Thanks to Bob for helping out with ticket sales. Tickets will be on sale at the supper also.

The latest news from the Book Committee — The History of Gilead has gone to the printers and should be available in mid-March. The list for reserved copies is growing. At the reasonable price of only $10, copies will go fast. Call Lin or Bev and reserve your copy now.

The Display Committee is busy gathering items for June. They are working on plans for how to display the many pictures they have accumulated. Still hoping to collect more Gilead related information of any kind — pictures, items or any stories you wish to share. Give us a call if you have anything.

We still need volunteers to help plan events and help us in June. If you can spare some time, call or come to the supper. The next meeting of the committee will be March 13 at Bog Brook.

Interesting Facts from Gilead, according to Howard — During the research for the History of Gilead book, it turned up that, "the Bethel Covered Toll Bridge, operated by the town, charged more for Gilead citizens than for other passengers." Compensation may be requested to help with the Bicentennial Celebration.

For more information on the Bicentennial Committee, give us a call — Lin Chapman (836-2987) or Bev Corriveau (836-2032).

From the

Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

The 30th annual Heritage Day will be held at the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center beginning on Feb. 21 at 1 p.m. and continuing until 4 p.m. During the afternoon, hot indian pudding will be served from the hearth of the winter kitchen of the Dr. Moses Mason House. Special tours of the museum will also be available. At the Robinson House, there will be traditional craft demonstrations, historical videos, and an opportunity to visit the exhibits. The museum shop will be open as well.

The Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center attracts several thousand visitors each year to its facilities and programming. During 2003 visitors came from many parts of the world, including the United Kingdom, Italy, Canada, New Zealand, Belize, the West Indies, Switzerland, Germany, and Mexico. Visitors also came from forty states in the United States.

The 2003 series of lectures included ones on the history of Maine-made automobiles, the steamer "Portland" and aviation in Bethel. Three more exhibits (historic Bethel area signs, 150 years of railroading from the Atlantic and St. Lawrence, and an introduction to Bethel's past) helped inform visitors of the area's past.

Plans are now underway to develop new exhibits and programming to attract more visitors to the Regional History Center when the summer begins. New courses will also be offered later in the year.

Nearly 1,200 members strong, the Bethel Historical Society, founded in 1966, is western Maine's largest and most comprehensive full-time historical agency, dedicated to collecting, preserving, and interpreting the regional past for present and future generations.

From

Gould Academy

Bob Brown, a co-founder of the Illinois Black Panther party and leading civil rights activist, spoke to Gould students on Tuesday, Feb. 3, as part of the school's observation of Black History Month.

Last month Brown made international headlines when he filed a federal lawsuit in Illinois that names 71 defendants including Pope John Paul II, George W. Bush, Queen Elizabeth II of England and several international companies. The lawsuit accuses the defendants of profiting from slavery and seeks reparations for ancestors of slaves. While Brown does not hold high hopes of garnering reparations from the defendants, his primary goal is to force them to testify and give full disclosure about how the entities they represent profited from slavery.

Brown, who has been an active member of the Civil Rights Movement for over 30 years, gave students an overview of the movement's history, including the early members and unsung heroes of the NAACP who set the stage for some of the defining moments of race relations in the U.S. during the 1960s. Brown also described the events that led to the formation of the Black Panther party and its worldwide reach during its peak years.

Commenting on his recent lawsuit and why he continues to work for and educate about the Civil Rights Movement, Brown said to the Gould students, "We want to tell the truth about what happened, and destroy the myths in a way that empowers people to act in a positive way."

Winter Carnival at Gould Academy

Students and staff at Gould Academy took a break from their winter routine to celebrate the school's annual Winter Carnival Monday evening and all day Tuesday. A toboggan race started this off Monday night. Tuesday's events began with a polar bear roll in the snow, followed by a day of fun and friendly competition on the school's Alumni Field. Students were divided into teams and competed in events such as tandem cross-country skiing, amoeba races, the human sled pull, a snowshoe obstacle course and tug-o-war. The weather cooperated, as Mother Nature produced what may be the warmest day in two months for the day's events.

She was born in North Paris on Dec. 3, 1904, the first of five daughters of Elias and Katri Mikkonen. She attended West Paris schools until she left for Boston to study music at the Faelten Piano School. While there, she met classmate Norman Gellatly, born in Scotland, and, graduating together in 1927, they were married in 1930. They lived in Quincy, Mass., and both taught piano in the South Shore area for over 50 years.

Mrs. Gellatly was a member of the Quincy Historical Society, the Quincy Women's Club and the First Parish Unitarian Church of Quincy. After her and her husband's virtual retirement in 1982, they moved to West Paris.

She became a member of the West Paris Historical Society, the Finnish-American Heritage Society and the Goodwill Group of the West Paris Universalist Church, where she also served as organist. In her last years, she served as the organist at the Bryant Pond Universalist Church.

Before her husband died, in 1989, they took various trips, visiting different parks in the United States as well as in England and Scotland. While overseas, they also visited with relatives in Scotland and Finland.

She will be missed by many people whose hearts were touched by her enjoyment of life's simplicity and genuine kindness she bestowed to all. She was an avid reader, loved teaching piano and loved spending time with her great-grandchildren.

She is survived by a daughter, Sylvia J. Josephs and her companion Gil Heikkinen of Surprise, Ariz.; a son, Norman S. Gellatly Jr. and his wife Debora of Auburn with whom Olga had lived; three sisters, Sylvia Wasanen of Florida, Alma Dixon of Norway and Hilma Hudson of South Yarmouth, Mass.; nine grandchildren; nine great-grandchildren; as well as a very special friend, Carmen Hadley. She was predeceased by her husband in 1989; and a sister, Milna Coolidge in 1994.

Memorial services were held at the Andrews Funeral Home, Bryant Pond on Wednesday, Feb. 11, with the Rev. Joy Gasta officiating. The family requests memorial gifts in her memory be made for a music scholarship in her name to be mailed to Norman Gellatly, 89 Granite Street, Auburn, ME 04210.
